“Train up a child in the way he should go: and when he is old, he will not depart from it.”

Proverbs 22:6

Greetings from the Wings Crew,

Looking back on the last month and considering how to report about the Wings ministry activities in February/March so far, a common theme is investing into the next generation of young people to serve the Lord. Proverbs 22:6 is usually applied to raising children in the home, but it is also relevant to training future preachers, missionaries, and faithful church members.

Open Hangar Homeschool Field Trip

Wings hosted a large Academy of Excellence homeschool group in a similar fashion as our recent Open Hangar event in October. We shared the history and vision of the Wings ministry to this group of younger students and parents on this field trip and gave airplane rides in the Chieftain and Cessna 172 aircraft. The Wings staff and volunteers from Wyldeewood Baptist Church (pictured here) pitched in to host activities and give flight simulator experience at the hangar. A day like this can make an impact on young lives, who we trust will go on to dedicate their lives to serving the Lord.

Missionary Aviation Presentation

Friend and fellow pilot David Swindler of Franklin Road Baptist Church (FRBC) in Murfreesboro, Tennessee, invited Wings to participate in a missionary aviation presentation at the EAA Chapter 419 meeting at the Murfreesboro Airport. Dr. Bob Green of BIMI and Jon Stanczak of Aero Missions were also invited. Paul Bach’s family accompanied me (Terry) in the Chieftain along with Kim Coman and her girls, who came to reconnect with husband Samuel, who was already down south for deputation meetings. Samuel also participated in the meeting. While the primary goal was to promote missionary aviation to the EAA Chapter 419 and local aviators, every speaker gave a clear testimony and gospel presentation. Thanks to the airport staff and FRBC for their generous support for this meeting!

Wings Family Highlights

Bob Warinner and his brother Larry both received their Wright Brother’s Master Pilot Award plaques from the FAA. Bart and Nancy Case have had their health ups and downs. Samuel and Kim Coman are back on the road for deputation meetings following Kennedy’s birth last month. Chris Holaday is completing his aircraft maintenance training soon while also flight instructing and advising prospective students about missionary flight training options. Sam Sanderlin’s family is beginning their furlough next month. We (Terry and Sarah Rushing) are helping Sarah’s mom through some recent health challenges and appreciate your prayers. Thank you for partnering with and praying for Wings As Eagles!
